Children Must Learn Meaning of Work

By Olive Roberts Barton

No matter how luxurious the home, I believe it is essential for children to grow up with an idea of what work means.

I could have shaken a certain fastidious Miss of ten one time when she stamped around and said there wasn't a single clean towel in the bathroom.

"You don't need to take a clean one each time." said her mother. "You've got a double hook. Hang your face towel on one and your bath towel on the other. Two a day will have to do you. Our washings are terrible."

"I won't use a towel twice," announced the youngster. "Daddy doosn't. What's an old towel anyway? We've got lots." .

"Well-if you have to have so many, go and got them yourself. Annie and I have something elsz to do besides fill up the rack for you every hour."

Fastidious Habits

It was a summer cottage. With the children in the lake every little while, sand to wash off under the shower and so on, I have seen near to a hundred towels in their wash on laundry day.

And this child "wouldn't use a towel twice!" Miss Persnicket, GLORIFYING should be made to wash and from one just to know what labour means.

She was careless of her own things. She left a sweater out in the rain and her mother said, "Shake the sand out of it and hang it up. When it dries it wil. be all right."

week."

"I won't have it on. It's dirty." Not all children are so fastidious. This child was aping her dad. He was that way and gloried in it. His child was like him. She seemed to have an inborn horror of dirt or disorder. So far so good. Such a trait is not a fault but a virtue in its own way.

Learn Meaning of Work

But it can get to be a vice, too. if carried to the extreme of nonsense, particularly when it lacks consideration of the other fellow.

It is strange that such people so often seem to make the least ofhave perfection, but some one else realizes what every stroke of work something new and novel for the must do it. Left to themselves, means.

of quality and quantity at the table, and it is perilous for a dyspeptic to dine in their company.

LONDON'S PRE EMINENCE.

Over-cating may have declined in Sussex and Hampshire, but the in some parts of London. Parson earth, would find plenty of spiritual kinsmen. I, unfortunately, should not be one of them. I hate bad food rather than love good food, and the fewer the dishes there are in an ordinary meal the better I like it.

But the reckless and heroic type of enter still exists, despite all the warnings of the doctors and the calorie-weighers. The world is not quite so decad-

RECOGNITION AT LAST

The expected has happened by Philadelphia Symphony Orch. the conclusion of the agreement Chicago Symphony Orchestra. whereby the United States agrees to recognise the Soviet. At long last, America has, been brought to a realisation of the absurdity of ignoring the existence of a regime which has persisted over a period of sixteen | would certainly appear that, in a years. Doubtless the main consideration actuating President Roosevelt in deciding to accord recognition is the fact that such differences as exist between the two nations are more likely to be composed by normal diplomatic intercourse than by continued aloofness. The nonrecognition policy hitherto has been based on three main objections - non-payment of war debts, confiscation of American property in Russia, and fears of propaganda for world revolution. On the first of these points, it is sufficient to say that nonrecognition has not helped in the collection of the debts, whilst in regard to the second it is a fact that numerous American firms have already adjusted their claims for property nationalised during the revolution, and recognition may facilitate further settlements. These 'two points will be fully explored now that recognition is an accomplished fact. So far as propaganda is concerned, the Soviet appreciating the meaning of that. has given a definite pledge to America, and any breach thereof would jeopardise future rela- bringing together of the two tions. NOTES OF THE DAY

WHO SPEAKS ENGLISH?

True scholarship is largely the art of asking the right questions. In evidence of this, Professor Lloyd-James, chief speech adviser to the B.B.C., has been able freshly to illumine even so hackneyed t topic as what constitutes acceptable English by the simple process of framing his inquiries about it in a slightly unconventional way. Many writers have asked, What is acceptable English? But Professor Lloyd-James inquires, by whom is acceptable English spoken His reply is informative, and challenging. Both President Roosevelt and Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, he contends, are within its limiting bounds. Viscount Snowden is almost, and Mr. J. H. Thomas he places a long way outside, while Mr. Stanley Baldwin just manages to pass muster. Right in the middle are King George V and Mr. Winston Churchill. The advantage of this method of arriving at what constitutes correct English is obvious.

DEFINITE MEANING

In these days of wireless broadeasting and talking pictures, nearly everybody knows how Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. MacDonald talk, and a statement that both speak an English classed as acing in almost all parts of the world. Moreover, the mere fact that two so widely differing speakers are approved, vividly gets across the comforting assurance that correct English is not a term to be reserved exclusively for one particular system of oral noises but is rather a capacious blanket under which many varying kinds of speech may take cover. It is, however, a blanket which is constantly changing its texture. For, necording to Professor Lloyd James, the pronunciation of that important vowel "a", is gradually taking on a cockney tinge. In this respect he says Englishmen are beginning to talk something like the vernacular found in a novel of Dickens. Whether or not this is the fact, opinions will differ; but, allowances being made for changes in cockney itself, it limited way, Englishmen are beginning to talk, if not better. any rate "Weller."

THE NAVY'S OTHER JOB.

The Navy has long been dear to the Englishman's heart. A growing consciousness of humanity's need for disarmament places him, therefore, in somewhat of quandary. He is loath to lose his pride in the Navy. Yet, if at all pacifically minded, he feels that it ber few such meals that developed is too militarist an institution to conform to his ideals. While CHRISTMAS, there are political partisans who APPETITE. decry any attempt to lessen naval armament, the mass of the nation approves of the reductions already made in the fleet, and yet is very far from welcoming the thinning of naval ranks. The blue jacket is always a popular figure, embodying as he does qualities hardly to be found in such rare combination in civil life. The British Navy is, in fact, a unique educational institution, capable of assimilating the most mixed elements of the nation: and imbuing them with manliness and manners. FRAMES WITHOUT RIVETS

REVOLUTION IN BUILDING

Experiments which may revolutionise building construction are being undertaken at the National Physical Laboratory at Teddington.

The object is to examine the value of electrical welding as a means of holding a steel-framework building together.

Electrical welding ... is -not -generally permitted at present, but it is hoped as a result of the present experiments that will be assured of the safety of the new method, the first advantage of which would be that the noise of ordinary riveted construction, which is a source of irritation in numerous cities, hvould be dispensed with:

American experts estimate that | Carpenter A.1 4.54.33 engineers would be saved between 5 and 10 per cent of the cost of construction of steel frameworks.

To obtain reliable data, the Laborntory is systematically recording the strain to which joints can be exposed by pulling, twisting 'fatigue' tests. It will take two years before these experiments may be said to be, justified and, before it will be possible to issue a nafety certificate.

In welded construction, there is an absolutely rigid connexion, the metal in the neighbourhood of the joint being melted by a strong electric current. The iron terminals themselves provide the 'solder' which holds the construction together. Design of buildings is also affected, since it is not necessary with welding to leave room for rivets, and a cleaner, sharper 'line' is possible.

A great deal, of course, depends upon the skill of the individual worker where welding is concern- College .. II.2 5.27.21 5.22.44 2 The results of bad welding would not be visible on the surface Rolla H.3 5.17.31 5.17.31 and great care would have to be exercised by those responsible for Falcon ... Progress is also being made with welded joints in the construction of boilers, and one British firm which has spent two years in perfecting its technique is now completing its first; orders-one of which comes from abroad.

St. Joseph's afforded an excellent engdium for the initiation of the East Lance into local football. The Saints play that type of game which in a combination of averagely good fast forward movements, inter-passing, open wing to wing and through passing, and close defending. It is an assortment of types which are individually adopted by the severa teams in the first division.

Anyway it provided a real test. On with purpose, top of which they had to contend with atrangeness of surroundings, lack of feague football practice and a number of ther circumstances all of which tended to prevent them from settling down to play a normal game.

I was extremely impressed with the work of Swain and Gorman at back. St Joseph's possess a lively little forward line, who delight in picking up the forward pass, and to keep them in check requires something more than medlocrity.

Swain and Gorman supplied it. The former was niways the master of Leonard, the St. Joseph's player vainly trying to best him by speed. Gorman was not over-troubled by the Ward-Gosano combination, although he had his work lightened by the dour play of North at left half.

The early aggressiveness of Greenshields, Leach and Wood found only a half-hearted apposition from the Borderers rearguard, and the Artillery were thoroughly in the ascendant.

That is why the metamorphosis shocked. Perhaps it is unfair to Price to suggest that if Jackie Allan had been playing at right back there might have been a different result.

Nevertheless there is no gainsaying that it was Price's miskick which directly led to the Borderers' value to the Gunners.

OVER TWELVE THOUSAND DOLLARS COLLECTED

Six deserving causes have benefitted by the observances of Trainigar and Navy Days in the Colony, and a financial statement issued by the Hon. . Treasurer of the Navy Day Fund reveals the success which attended both efforts.

The receipts totalled $12,725.93, out-of-which-$3,840 came . from the sale of flags on Trafalgar Day. The big attendance at the Naval Yard on Navy Day, howover, contributed $5,440.05, and the sale of programmes yielded $1,288.45.

There were also several voluntary contributions, His Excellency the Governor contributing $50 and the Hongkong Jockey Club heading the list with $1,000.

The six causes which have benefitted are the Soldiers and Sailors Home ($2,700) the Beamen's Institute and Sea Scouts ($2,300); the Cheero Club ($2,-000); the Navy League ($1,000); the Trafalgar Orphan Fund ($500) and the Chinese General Charities Fund ($500).

The general expenses totalled $3,491.94 and a-balance of $238.99 is left, which is retained to meet any further expenses coming to hand: Any residue will form the neucleus for another Navy Day or be devoted to Charity if this does not take place,

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

It is not always difficult to bid for game or slam when your hand and partner's hold all of the high cards, capecially if the opponents alt back and allow the two partners to bid back and forth uninterrupted

But a serious problem, always confronting the beginner at contract, is what to do when an opponent either opens the bidding or interposes with a bid. Let us first take up what to do when the bidding is opened by an opponent,

Our first weapon is the informatory double, which is the doubling of an opponent's bid, partner not having made a bid. To make an informatory double over an original bid, the doubler not having previously passed, should show a hand that has hopes of going game with about one and one-half high card tricks in partner's hand.

PIT DISASTER

WORST IN ENGLAND THIS YEAR

London, Nov. 19. The disaster of the Grassmoor Colliery near Chesterfield was the worst recorded in England this year.

There were thirty-one men the mine when the explosion occurred, causing the collapse the roof of the main gallery and the entombment of eighteen the underground workers.

After three and a half hours of frantic digging by the rescue party, four of the men were leased, not seriously injured, but suffering rather badly from shock.

CONFLICTING REPORTS CONCERNING DEVELOPMENTS IN FUKIEN ARE CREATING A PUZZLING ATMOSPHERE.

Simultaneously with widespread rumours in Canton this afternoon, to the effect that a Declaration of Independence was issued in Foochow this morning, by the anti-Chiang Kaishek group who have centred their activities upon Fukien, comes a telegram from Nanking announcing that Mr. Lin Sen, freshly back from Fukien, has confidently assured Kuomintang leaders that no trouble is to be feared.

A leading Canton official also expresses strong doubts about the truth of any of the rumours, although it is clearly impossible to remove the belief that something unusual is afoot, when Li Chai-sum, Eugene Chen, Chen Ming-shu suddenly make a rendezvous in Foochow.

Rumour has it that Canton is being left out of the movement owing to the refusal of General Chan Chaitong, to co-operate, but that the XIXth Route Army has its eyes on Kwangtung Province and that an attempt to oust Chan Chai-tong may be anticipated.

Children Must Learn Meaning of Work

By Olive Roberts Barton

-No matter how luxurious, the home, I believe it is essential for children to grow up with an idea of what work means.

I could have shaken a certain fastidious Miss of ten one time when she stamped around and said there wasn't a single clean towel In the bathroom,

"You don't need to take a clean one each time," said her mother. "You've got a double hook. Hang your face towel on one and your bath towel on the other. Two a day will have to do you. Our washings are terrible."

"I won't use a towel twice," announced the youngstor. "Daddy doesn't. What's an old towel anyway? We've got lots."

"Well-If you have to have so many, go and get them yourself. Annie and I have something els: to do busides fill up the rack for you every hour."

DEFINITE MEANING

In these days of wireless broadcasting and talking pictures, nearly everybody knows how Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. MacDonald talk, and a statement that both speak an English classed as acceptable conveys a definite meaning in almost all parts of the world. Moreover, the mere fact that two so widely differing speakers are approved, vividly gets across the comforting assurance that correct English is not a torm to be reserved exclusively for one particular system of oral noises, but is rather a capacious blanket under which many varying kinds' of speech may take cover. It is, however, a blanket which is con-The expected has happened by limited way, Englishmen are hearty eater. beginning to talk, if not better, at whereby the United States

"THE THREE SISTERS"

Faith, the cidest of the three ovely sisters, packed her two pairs of scantles into a brown paper bag and departed for Hongkong, leaving Hope and little Charity weeping quietly.

Each of Faith's letters were full of wonderful stories of the glamour of the East. Hope, and little Charity as well, divined from each that Faith was growing more and more captivated by Hongkong. Hope decided to join Faith.

The same charming progress that Faith had experienced seemed to fall to Hope. Faith and she were. therefore not greatly surprised when, two years later, Faith received at her flat a note from Charity to say that she, too, was on her way to the Colony.

Faith sent her limousine to pick up little Charity at the wharf when the P. & O. liner arrived. While they bought lingerie and frocks and shoes and hats and sheer silk stockings so that little Charity would not feel dowdy. But the car arrived back without

THE OFFENCE.

Mr. Fraser said that in 1928 application was made at the Supreme Court for letters of administration for one Leung Kin. The applicant was Leung Yeukchi, who represented himself as being the eldest son. The petition for letters of administration showed that Leung Kin died in U Lam Village, in the Kau Kong district in 1927, but as there was no death certificate as produced in ordinary practice at the Supreme Court, an affirmation of death was required. That affirmation was made by the defendant, Kwan Wal-chow, in which he stated he know and was acquainted with Loung Kin and that prior to his death he resided in Kau Kong district where he died on July 8, 1927. Leung Kin actually died on July 16, 1916 at 30, New Market Street, Hongkong, but there was no suggestion that the petitioner was not the lawful claimant of the estate.

Mr. McNeill said his client was sentence at Victoria Gaol. a man of good class and respectability and would be vouched Birger Naess, Lam Kwong-sik and for by the compradores of Messrs. Kwan Mok-chung. Jardine Matheson and of the Chartered Bank.

As a matter of fact this duty was paid up some time before the prosecution was begun. It should also be known that the prosecution was begun by a woman who, though not directly interested in the estate, was interested in the family, and had demanded a share in the estate. She had threatened to reveal the perjury if, her wishes were not met and she had in . fact done so on petitioner refusing to advance her money. She had made her demands through prisoner and as it was obviously impossible for him to ray her the money, it was a little unfair that he should be the person to suffer.

Counsel was unable to say when the duty was paid in full and Porter. His Lordship adjourned the case as stated above.

LADY CLAIMS JEWELLERY

The police believe that in the man they are holding for alleged connexion with a number of Peak robberies, including the recen one at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Lloyd, they have caught a master-thief, one for whom they have searched for a long, while but whose identity had hitherto always remained concealed.

The meagre information available to Press representatives seems to indicate that in a cir cuitous manner Police investigations were taken to a quarter a quantity of jewellery other than that stolen from Mrs. J.D. Lloyd, and which gave them a reasonable supposition of stolen property.

This supposition has now been confirmed, it was stated to-day, through the identification of the jewellery by the owner, a. European lady staying at the Peninsula Hotel.

The lady was led to enquire a Police Headquarters during the week-end through seeing a report given in the European press and which contained a description of the jewellery. There still remains a gold chai

"We shall be nothing except in agreement with those attached to us by pacts concluded in the bright daylight of the League of Nations," is how M. Paul-Boncour expresses French policy. France, he says is ready to where they succeeded in locating talk at any time, but any agreement between her and Germany must culminate at Geneva.

As a result of Germany's wild nationalist enthusiasm, the order and stability of Europe were at stake and it is not surprising, that the neighbours of the Reich are anxious.

If Germany re-armed, France, he emphasises, will continue to arm and there will be a "death race." But each 'country is' represented by ambassadors in their respective capitals and any concrete proposal received from Germany would be considered in the spirit with which France always treated that great country, on whose relations with them the peace of Europe mainly depended.

NOT TO YIELD.

M. Sarraut, the French Prime Minister, sums up the Government's reply to Herr Hitler as one of fearlessness, but, at the same time, as one of peace via Geneva and a desire for an understanding with Germany.

France, he declares, wants to continue to build up peace with security and, even less than yesterday, must France yield. France would not abandon Geneva, or the Disarmament Con-

SPECIAL DESCRIPTIONS BY "VERITAS."

The semi-finals in the Open Mixed Doubles Championship of the Colony have now been re-arranged.

This afternoon at the C.R.C., M. W. Lo and Mrs. Litton will meet E. C. Fincher and Miss O. Dalziel, and to-morrow L. Goldman and Mrs. Lochner, the holders, oppose Capt.

Cannon and Mrs. James. Special descriptions of the marches by "Veritas" will appear in both editions of the Telegraph on Tuesday and Wednesday.

OVER TWELVE THOUSAND DOLLARS COLLECTED

Six deserving causes have benefitted by the observances of Trainigar and Navy Days in the Colony, and a financial state ment issued by the Hon. Trensurer of the Navy Day Fund reveals the success which attended both efforts.

The receipts totalled $12,725.93, out of which $3,810 came from the sale of flags on Trafalgar Day. The big attendance at the Naval Yard on Navy Day, however, contributed $5,440.05, and the sale of programmes yielded

There were also several voluntary contributions, His Excellency the Governor contributing $50 and the Hongkong Jockey Club heading the list with $1,000.

The six causes which have benefitted are the Soldiers and Sailors Home ($2,700) the Seamen's Institute and Sen Scouts ($2,300); the Cheero Club ($2,-) 000); the Navy League ($1,000); Trafalgar Orphan Fund ($500) and the Chinese General Charities Fund ($500).

The general expenses totalled $3,491.94 and a balance of $233.99 is left, which is retained to meet any further expenses coming to hand. Any residue will form the neucleus for another Navy Day or be devoted to Charity if this does not take place.

It is not always difficult to bid for game or slam when your hand | Calcuta and partner's hold all of the high Canton cards, especially if the opponents alt back and allow the two partners to bid back and forth uninterrupted.

But a serious problem, always confronting the beginner at contract, is what to do whom an opponent either opens the bidding or interposes with a bid. Lot us first take up what to do when the bldding is opened by an opponent.

Our first weapon is the informatory double, which is the doubling of an opponent's bld, partner not having made a bid. To make an tricks in partner's hand.

BAG-SNATCHING TRIAL

ACCUSED DENIES OFFENCE

A case of bag-snatching in Queen's Road West was before the Chief Justice, Mr. J. R. Wood, sitting with a jury at the Criminal Sessions this morning.

Li Lam pleaded not guilty to stealing a leather bag from Chau Ping, on November 3, and to breach of Deportation Order..... The Crown withdrew the second charge. The jury consisted of Messre. J. Dick, foreman, E. de Figueiredo, L. A. V. Ribeiro, R. Taylor, G. B. Labrum, A. L. G. Eastman; and P. L. Reefe.

It was stated that the woman was walking with the child at the junction of Queen's Road and Chung Ching Street when her bag was suddenly snatched from her and prisoner was seen .running away with it in his hand. I constable ran after the man, who fell after a short distance. When arrested the bag was not found on. him and he flatly dealed that he was the offender. It was thought that he either had an accomplice or throw the bag away in the Evidence was given by Chau Ping, her daughter, and the constable who captured prisoner. The first two stated that they saw him running away with the bag and the latter that he arrested prisoner because he was running away and the woman was shouting day, following the arrival out "Thief!"
